Subject: I'd love your help with the VERGE 17 program – call for speakers opens today. Hello, VERGE Conference and Expo returns to Silicon Valley, September 19-21, and our team is already hard at work building a powerful program to explore the technologies and systems accelerating the clean economy. Today is a particularly exciting day – our call for speaker nomination period is now open, and I have a special request:

Who is a dynamic person with a fresh perspective, innovative idea or promising technology that will accelerate the clean economy? The momentum behind VERGE grows exponentially each year, due in large part to the high-caliber speakers we engage. This year, we'll be showcasing nearly 200 speakers to lead transformative yet practical, scalable, solutions-oriented sessions that are thought-provoking and inclusive of the diverse stakeholders VERGE convenes – more than 1,500 influential leaders from the world's largest companies, innovative startups, progressive government agencies and more.

To submit a speaker proposal, click here. The deadline for proposals is March 31, but I encourage you to submit your proposal early, since speaking slots for this conference fill up quickly. I look forward to hearing your best ideas.

Best,

Elaine Hsieh VERGE Program Director & Senior Analyst
GreenBiz Group

P.S. Do you know someone you think would make a great VERGE speaker? Forward this email to them.
